Dear HFA: Alameda School Families:

We are pleased to provide a copy of the newly-released State of Texas 2013-14 School Report Card for Henry Ford Academy: Alameda School for Art + Design, which shows that our school received a high rating: Met Standard.

Our entire school community -- students, parents, teachers, staff and community partners -- can be proud of the strong support network we've built to help our students achieve at a level that exceeds the target scores for all three indexes on which we were measured. We hold ourselves to high expectations in our service to students and are committed to continuing to strengthen our academic, artistic and social/emotional programs.

About the Report

This is a report required by the Texas Legislature and prepared by the Texas Education Agency. It is to be sent to the parent or guardian of every child enrolled in a Texas public school. The report provides information concerning student performance on the State of Texas Assessments of Academic Readiness (STAAR), as well as information on student enrollment, class size averages, and financial expenditures.

The information contained in the School Report Card is required by state law and is briefly described in the enclosed "2013-14 School Report Card Definitions." The report for our school may or may not have all the information described, because the information presented depends on whether the school is an elementary, middle, or high school.

State law requires that the school report card display information about the state, the district, and the school. Where possible, the information must be reported by race/ethnicity and socio-economic status of the students and must include at least two years of results.

The School Report Cards can be found online at:
